Ladies and gentlemen

Objectives

- Today, we mark an important milestone in strengthening international academic collaboration between UCSI University and CQ University, Australia

  This partnership reflects our shared commitment to academic excellence, innovation and global engagement

  It also signifies a forward-looking approach to preparing students for an increasingly interconnected world

- This partnership is centred on creating clear and structured academic progression pathways

  Allowing UCSI students to complete their undergraduate studies here and seamlessly progress to postgraduate programmes at CQU with recognised qualifications

  Ensuring continuity in learning while reducing barriers to international education

  Ultimately enabling students to achieve globally recognised academic and career outcomes

- We are also exploring flexible study models

    Including 2+2, 3+2 and other suitable pathways across relevant disciplines

    These models will be carefully aligned based on curriculum compatibility and academic standards

    Allowing students to optimise both time and cost in completing their studies

    Ultimately giving students more choice, flexibility and control over their academic journey

- Expand student mobility opportunities

    Through well-defined credit transfer pathways that ensure smooth academic transitions

    Student exchange programmes that provide international exposure

    Opportunities for short-term study visits, summer programmes or academic attachments

- Institutional Benefits - Enhances the global reputation of both institutions

    Strengthens international visibility and recognition through a strategic cross-border partnership

    Positions both institutions as forward-thinking and internationally engaged in an increasingly competitive higher education landscape

    Opens pathways for broader academic collaboration which includes:

o Joint programmes
- Development of dual-degree or jointly delivered programmes across selected disciplines
- Opportunities to co-design curricula that integrate the strengths of both institutions

o Academic exchange
- Facilitation of staff and faculty exchanges for teaching, training and professional development
- Opportunities for knowledge-sharing, curriculum enhancement and innovative teaching

o Research collaboration (future potential)
- Laying the groundwork for joint research initiatives and collaborative projects
- Encouraging co-publications, research grants and academic knowledge exchange
- Supporting innovation and impact-driven research in areas of mutual interest

Closing

- We are confident that this partnership will open new doors for our students and potentially our staff
- We look forward to a meaningful and impactful collaboration in the years ahead
